

AIRMEN FORCED BY WEATHER TO LAND IN MAINE

Plan Making Flight to Boston Today if Possible

PORTLAND, Me., Sept. 5. (AP)—Rain began to fall here late tonight causing doubt in some quarters whether the world fliers would be able to resume their flight tomorrow as planned. The weather bureau in Washington today ordered storm warnings from Sandy Hook to Eastport, advising that a disturbance was moving northeastward and increasing in intensity.

Boston, Sept. 5. (AP)—Fog and thick weather that rolled up along the Maine Coast brought about an unexpected landing by the American world girdling army aviators at Mere Point, near Brunswick, Maine, today while a crowd of nearly 40,000 persons awaited them at the Boston airport. Reaching the mainland of the United States after an absence of nearly five months in which they completed the virtual circumnavigation of the world by air, the fliers received by telephone the congratulations of high army officials who had gathered here to meet them.

The aviators, who alighted on the waters of Casco Bay, Maine, without mishap, tonight were planning to proceed here as early as possible tomorrow where a re-arranged program of ceremonies is to be carried out. Then, according to arrangements made by Major General Patrick, the planes will be overhauled, the pontoons removed and landing gears substituted. On Sunday according to plans they will push on to New York City. They will land at Mitchell Field from where they will continue their flight to the Pacific Coast.

Chicago, Sept. 5.—The U. S. Army world fliers will be guests here at a public reception when they arrive September 10, but beyond this, plans for the city's welcome to the airmen will be modest, it was announced today by the Chicago Association of Commerce which is one of several civic, business and military organizations cooperating in arranging details for their over night visit.

At the request of Major General Mason M. Patrick, chief of the U. S. Army Air Service, elaborate preparations were not made. In the interest of the airmen he requested that they may be given opportunity to rest. Lieutenant Wade's father and sister of Casopolis, Mich., it was announced, will be among the thousands who will gather here to welcome the airmen while hundreds of visiting and Chicago planes will be piloted to the field where they land and drawn up in battle array.

A cordon of thirty five policemen has already been named to form a circle around the fliers as soon as they land to protect them from the ravages of souvenir hunters.

ARGUMENT CONTINUED IN SMALL HEARING

SPRINGFIELD, Ill., Sept. 5. (AP)—Assistant Attorney General Floyd Britton, today continued the argument for the state in the civil suits against Governor Small for an accounting of interest monies while the governor was state treasurer of Illinois. The case today attracted but little attention.

Britton devoted most of his argument to the Grant Park Bank. He declared this bank was a migratory institution and followed the late Senator Edward G. Curtis.

Where Senator Curtis' hat was, there was the Grant Park Bank, Britton declared.

Attorney Korner Schroeder will argue for Governor Small next week. The arguments are being made before Master in Chancery Charles G. Brizgle, who heard the evidence in the suits.

ROPE DISCOVERED IN COOK CO. JAIL NEAR FRANKS BOY SLAYERS

Youths May Not Know of it
But Officers Take no
Chances

CHICAGO, Sept. 5.—Discovery of an 18 foot length of rope made from old clothing in a cell in the Cook county jail two tiers below those in which Nathan Leopold, Jr., and Richard Loeb, slayers of young Robert Franks, are confined, led to a redoubting today of guards for the two millionaires' sons who will be sentenced to the gallows or the penitentiary next week. While officials after an investigation said they did not believe either of the youths knew anything about the rope, jail guards said they were taking no chances with their most celebrated prisoners.

The length of rope was found in a cell occupied by two prisoners, one of them, Russell Scott, who once confessed murder but later changed his plea to not guilty when the judge indicated he would sentence Scott to death. Scott admitted making the rope, but said he made it three months ago to hang clothes on.

While the jail authorities were investigating the finding of the rope, Leopold and Loeb were entertaining in their cells, this being visitors' day. Six girls and women called on Loeb but Leopold's guests were confined to male relatives.

Judge John R. Caverly who will sentence the boys expects to leave the city in a day or two to write his decision.

Judge Caverly said today that after he has read the sentence in court, he expects to make a plea that a law be enacted requiring three judges to sit hereafter in all capital cases where a plea of guilty is entered and a jury trial waived.

"I wish this case had gone to a jury," he said. "I then would be the thirteenth man and not the only one to render the decision."

DAVIS SAYS NONE OF MIDWEST STATES ARE SURRENDERED BY HIM

Declares He Will Not Discuss Personalities at Any Time

CHICAGO, Sept. 5. (AP)—After four days of conferences with Democratic leaders from half a dozen states, John W. Davis departed tonight to carry his fight for the presidency into the territory west of the Mississippi river.

Before boarding his special train for Omaha, Neb., where he will speak tomorrow night the Democratic standard bearer declared that the four days spent here had been as profitable as any four days he has spent since his nomination.

"I am really very much encouraged by the conferences held here," he said. "I have seen people from Indiana, from Kansas, from Nebraska, from Iowa. The situation in all those states is not only as good as I thought it was; it is a good deal better. I am not prepared to announce how many of these states I am going to carry, or by what majorities, but I am going to make a fight in every one of them."

"You do not regard anyone of them as hopeless?" Mr. Davis was asked.

"Assuredly I do not regard any of them as hopeless."

Asked about reports in wide circulation to the effect that "Davis is thru in the west," the Democratic candidate declared this is propaganda and declared there could be no doubt about its source.

"Undoubtedly the reason that it is spread," he said, "is to make the fight in the west on its face a fight between Coolidge and LaFollette with the hope that the vote will be split between radicals and the conservatives, and that Coolidge will get all of the one and LaFollette all of the other. I expect to hold all of the Democrats of the west, and I hope to add to their number before it is over."

PRINCIPAL MEN IN HERRIN RIOT LEAVE ON VISIT

Is Believed Request is Made by National Guard Officers

HERRIN, Ill., Sept. 5. (AP)—Williamson county became the temporary abode of the dove of peace today when three of the principal men figuring in the shooting affray here last Saturday in which six men were killed, left the county.

The men who left were Sheriff George Galligan, Ora Thomas, his deputy, and John H. Smith, the only man the coroner's jury recommended be held for murder in connection with the shooting between Ku Klux Klan and anti-klan sympathizers.

Sheriff Galligan and his deputy went to Pontiac, Ill., while Smith went to Hopkinsville, Ky. to visit his mother and assure her of his innocence, he said. Illinois National Guard officers were reported to have suggested the departure of the three men in order to give the situation an opportunity to quiet down.

Sheriff Galligan, a klan opponent, left his office in charge of Deputy Sheriff Randall Parks, an acknowledged klanman. Delos Duty, state's attorney, asserted that "no militia captain will chase me out of town" and declared that he expected to stay at Marion to present the matters surrounding the shooting to the grand jury and to prosecute in case indictments are returned.

The automobile which was the indirect cause of the shooting affray was seized by a deputy sheriff today. Sheriff Galligan had gone to Smith's garage to take the car which was reported stolen and which was the machine in which Jack Skecher was killed last May a day after S. Glenn Young and his wife were wounded at Okawville Ill.

While at the garage the trouble which led to the shooting affray started.

CAMPAIGN FUND PROBE COMMITTEE ORGANIZE

CHICAGO, Sept. 5. (AP)—Senator William M. Borah, chairman and other members of the senate campaign fund investigating committee today closed meetings of organization with the announcement that mail to the committee will be received at the Congress hotel effective forthwith and that a clerical force will be assembled and offices at the hotel opened in a few days.

"Money is coming in very slowly for all the campaigns, so far as we can find," said Mr. Borah. "Hearings will be held and publicly, for examination of any outside evidence that may be submitted, and to supplement the data to be given in the reports of the campaign chairmen. These will be held up until after the reports are in and probably not until the end of the month."

"Senator Shipstead of Minnesota and Bayard of Delaware were present and Senator Jones of Washington was represented by a report. Senator Caraway of Arkansas, in Europe had told us to go ahead."

"MISS AMERICA" WILL BE SELECTED TODAY

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., Sept. 5.—Fifteen girls emerged from the ordeal of selection by the judges after the bathers' review this afternoon and from these will either meet her superior or add to her laurels of beauty by again winning the title in a field that shows a higher average of beauty than any pageant has produced heretofore.

The choice for highest honors from each section of the country showed that those gaining first place won it by scoring perfectly with one exception, "Miss Manhattan" who made but 14.

Mid-eastern division, the winners were:

First, Chicago; second, Youngstown; third, Milwaukee. "Miss America" of 1924 will be announced tomorrow night when the young lady adjudged the most beautiful girl in America will be crowned queen of the pageant.

FORMOSANS KILLED BY CHINESE SOLDIERS

Tokio, Sept. 6. (AP)—Several Formosans of Japanese nationality have been killed by Chinese soldiers at Amoy, China, according to newspaper despatches from the Chinese city. It is said that the men were killed during disorders in connection with the civil war in China. The Japanese navy department has despatched four destroyers from the Pescadores Islands near Formosa to Amoy to protect Japanese subjects.

Huge Loan Arranged For German Industry

NEW YORK, Sept. 5. (AP)—Negotiations virtually have been completed for the extension of a $10,000,000 credit to the German coal syndicate by a group of eight or ten American banks headed by the Equitable Trust company.

Funds which will be made available to the industry will be used to finance the revival of coal production in the Ruhr Valley. While terms of the loan have not been finally arranged, it is probable that the credit will run for six months and be renewable at the expiration of that period. The interest rate has not been fixed. Security for the loan will be provided by coal mines in the Ruhr and stored coal by the guarantees of the German syndicate itself, which is a joint distributing agency, and a number of German banks.

While pending negotiations for upwards of $100,000,000 of other industrial credits may not be completed until after floatation of the international loan to Germany from German business interests continue to accumulate, bankers reported today. Estimates of the total amount sought have ranged from $100,000,000 to as high as $1,000,000,000.

BOTH OF ARMIES IN CHINA MAKE USE OF CANNON IN BATTLES

Is Believed Possible That Other Soldiers Will Take Sides

SHANGHAI, Sept. 5. (AP)—General Chi Shieh-Yuan, the Kiangsu leader, continued today to throw his strength against the right wing of the Chekiang army, self-styled defenders of Shanghai, which rests on the estuary of the Yangtze river at the little town of Liuhou, west of Woosung, the outer anchorage for Shanghai. His immediate objective is believed to be Woosung where he hopes to secure assistance from warships for his advance on the Whangpoo to Shanghai. He failed to make any headway there yesterday despite the use of artillery, which both sides have now brought into action and again today was being held according to the headquarters staff of the Chekiang army.

Whether the main battle is to be fought on this wing is not yet clear. Apparently General Lu Yung Huang, the commander of the Chekiang forces feels that his left wing at Hwangtu on the Shanghai-Nanking railway east of Shanghai where he has established his headquarters and whence he is sending reinforcements, need guarding to prevent the enemy penetrating into his province and menacing the Sungkiang-Hankow railway.

This line gives him an easy means of communication outward into Chekiang.

Interest still centers in the possible attitude of General Chang Tso-Lin of Manchuria and General Wu Pei-fu of Chihli, both of whom have declared that they have no intention of interfering in what they declare is a local fight between the two Tchuans. However, it is felt that there is a possibility of some of Wu's soldiers stationed west of the present fighting center drifting into the Kiangsu army the cause of which their chief is understood to favor.

Dr. Sun Yat Sen, the head of the South China government who has been short of funds for some time, it is thought, is not in a position to intervene at present.

SHIPSTEAD TAKES ISSUE WITH DAWES

GALESBURG, Ill., Sept. 5.—Senator Henrik Shipstead of Minneapolis declared in an address here tonight that he and other supporters of LaFollette agreed with Brigadier General Charles G. Dawes, Republican candidate for vice-president, that the issue of the campaign "is the preservation of the fundamentals of the American system of government."

"But we charge," added the Farmer-Labor senator, "that Charles G. Dawes and men of his like are the very greatest enemies of these same fundamentals which he so vigorously claims to defend."

"We who cannot support the candidates for president and vice-president nominated by the Republican and Democratic parties believe that the government has not been used for the purposes intended that it should be used for. We believe that the power of special privilege, it has been used by those entrusted with its control to deprive the farmer and laborer of a large share of the products of their toil."

DAWES COMPLETES MILWAUKEE ADDRESS

Evanston, Ill., Sept. 5.—Charles G. Dawes, Republican candidate for vice-president completed and sent to the printer today the address he will deliver next Thursday evening in Milwaukee. The address is regarded by Dawes as one of the most important he will make during the campaign, discussing as it does the LaFollette independent movement which the Republican nominee in his acceptance speech and in subsequent addresses has declared represents the dominant issue of the campaign.

Mr. Dawes plans to leave Evanston late in the day Thursday, arriving in Milwaukee shortly before he is to speak in the Milwaukee auditorium and will return to his home here immediately after the meeting.

HERRIOT AGREES WITH MAC DONALD ON ARBITRATION

League of Nations to Hold Next Arma- ments Conference

GENEVA, Sept. 5. (AP)—Great events which the league of nations circles is firmly believing are destined to affect the future of the whole world including the people of the United States occurred at today's session of the assembly of the league.

France joined Great Britain in pledging support for the principle of compulsory arbitration through her premier, M. Herriot, in removing the doubts of those who feared that France would hesitate to weaken her force as a great continental military power.

M. Herriot announced unequivocally that France favors an international conference of disarmament.

In a calm masterly oration, like that Premier MacDonald of Great Britain delivered before the assembly Thursday, M. Herriot made the men and women present sit in rigid attention.

The premier told the world through the assembly that henceforth that nation which refused to submit disputes to arbitration would be stigmatized as an aggressor nation.

Tonight the one supreme topic for speculation among the delegates generally was what the reaction in the next two days in the assembly would have on the United States. Next to definite commitments to the policy of arbitration one thing stands out clearly, that is that all Europe, led by Great Britain and France, now has proclaimed that it is the league of nations, and no other body that the peace of the world must be solidified.

France, like Great Britain, has made it clear that the next disarmament conference must be convoked by the league of nations, because, it is considered the only body fitted and properly equipped to carry thru such a conference.

Apparently, in the opinion of many delegates, the United States must come to Europe and probably Geneva, and cooperate with the league of nations if that country desires to take any part in the next International effort to reduce armaments on land and sea.

Tonight the general impression exists that the United States will participate in such a conference.

FAHY DECLARES IT IS HIS TIME NOW

CHICAGO, Sept. 5. (AP)—William Fahy for thirteen years star postal inspector and now in jail on charges of being the "brains" of the $2,000,000 mail robbery near Rondout, Ill., last June, declared tonight that he expects to start to work on the toughest job of his sleuthing career tomorrow when he hopes to be released under $50,000 bonds.

"They've reached the end of the 'run around' they've been giving me on this bond thing, and in the morning I'm going to start digging up some dirt that will make a lot of gas in the Washington office," he asserted.

He has been held pending scheduling of property valued at $100,000, twice the amount of the bond, and several times made up in schedules have been refused on the ground that the property was not worth the amount at which it was scheduled. Fahy declared that he has been "framed" by a mob of eastern inspectors.

FIRST ELDRADO MURDER TRIAL STARTS

Eldorado, Ill., Sept. 5.—The first murder trial in the local city court began here this morning when the case against John Rose charged with having killed Bert Jones, a blacksmith, January 20, last, was called for trial.

According to the evidence produced at the coroner's inquest Jones, Rose and three others were seated in Jones' shop, when the men became loud. Jones asked them to leave but Rose remained. After walking a short distance the other three heard groans and upon returning found Jones on the ground. Rose was said to be standing over him, holding a hatchet in his hand. Jones died four days after the attack.

GREEK CONSUL STILL MISSING

Chicago, Sept. 5.—Leonidas Matlis, Greek consul general here dropped mysteriously out of sight six weeks ago, and is still missing according to a story appearing in the Herald Examiner today.

At the same time, the paper says, information has leaked out to the effect that a shortage of $25,000 exists in the accounts of the consulate and that an investigation has been ordered by the Athens government.

A new consul general, Vasil Mammonas, has been named to succeed the missing consul and he assumed charge yesterday.

PRESIDENT COOLIDGE GIVES ATTENTION TO CAMPAIGN SITUATION

Also Considers Domestic And Foreign Government Problems

WASHINGTON, Sept. 5.—Additional reports on the political situation were today placed before President Coolidge who also gave attention to domestic and foreign problems of government. Tomorrow he will motor to Baltimore to deliver an address at the unveiling of the Lafayette statue.

A. B. Houghton, ambassador to Germany, home on vacation called to pay his respects to Mr. Coolidge late in the day, and gave a glowing account of the success of the Dawes reparation plan insofar as it already has been tried.

"We must get more capital into Germany," he said, "and the loan which is wonderfully secured will accomplish that."

The president went over details of his plan for investigating agriculture with members of the cabinet this morning and it was indicated he would name the commission to make the investigation within a few days. The president was said also to be giving some consideration to the tariff commission report on the sugar duty but in view of the divided opinion of the commission on the proposal for a reduction he had found considerable difficulty in reaching a conclusion and an immediate report is not anticipated.

Mr. Coolidge also definitely accepted an invitation to speak at the unveiling here October 15, of a statue of Francis Asbury, prominent in the early history of the Methodist church in this country.

The invitation was extended recently by Bishop William F. McDowell of the Methodist Episcopal church. The president also will speak before the Holy Name society convention here Sept. 21 and at the unveiling of the First Division monument here October 4.

Representative Tilson of Connecticut, manager of the speakers' bureau of the eastern division of the Republican national committee and Representative Reed of West Virginia, conferred with the president and pictured a bright outlook for the election in their states.

PERSHING ASKED TO START WILDWEST SHOW

WASHINGTON, Sept. 5.—A proposal that he embark on a wild west show enterprise after his retirement from active service Friday, is among the suggestions made to General Pershing with the approach of the close of his active career in the army.

Details of the wild west show suggestions are not available but it was learned today that an offer of that nature had reached him, from which he derived considerable amusement.

So far as known General Pershing has no definite plans as to how he will occupy himself when he goes on the retired list. He has been bombarded with offers of various kinds, including proposals that he go into the moving pictures.

So far as known however, he has given none of the offers serious consideration.

UNIVERSITY PROFESSOR INVENTS GILDED GLASSES

Baltimore, Sept. 5.—Gilded glasses—yellow glass upon which is a coating of gold—which it is claimed, eliminate heat and glare from light and yet permit sufficient illumination for sight have been invented by Dr. A. H. Pfund, associate professor of physics in Johns Hopkins university. Used in goggles for men who work in the glare of furnaces the device termed by the inventor "gold screen," will eliminate danger of blindness, physicists says and used in the moving picture industry, it is regarded as a protection against fire.

WARRANT ASKED BY CURRAN FOR FIGHTER FIRPO

Request Made on Davis by Immigra- tion Commissioner

NEW YORK, Sept. 5.—An application for a warrant to bring Louis Angel Firpo, Argentine boxer brought by Henry H. Curran, commissioner of Immigration for a hearing on deportation proceedings was sent to the secretary of labor in Washington, by Mr. Curran today. The commissioner made this announcement after the hearing of several witnesses and the examination of evidence submitted to him by Canon William Sheaf Chase, who, for the past month has been collecting evidence which is said to show that on a previous trip to this country Firpo illegally brought in Blanca Picart, a country woman.

Commissioner Curran announced this action by the following brief statement:

"On the basis of evidence obtained within the last day or so, I have applied for a warrant for the arrest of Firpo."

This evidence, according to Canon Chase consisted principally of ten telegrams alleged to have been sent by Firpo to Miss Picart in the Argentine. Some of these are said to have borne the signature of Firpo's landlady during his first visit here.

Canon Chase asserted the copies of the messages were obtained from the landlady who stated she did not give permission to use her signature.

Bernard Sandler, attorney for Canon Chase in a statement on prospective bail for Firpo if the warrant is issued, pointed to legal precedents which he said denies bail in the courts to persons on trial in deportation proceedings.

This statement was made by him after Hyman Bushnell, attorney for Firpo, had asserted that even if the warrant was issued the customary time for preparation of defense and collection of witnesses, would permit Firpo, while out on bail to proceed with his contemplated bout with Harry Wills, negro heavyweight next Thursday.

Firpo was brought from his training camp at Saratoga Springs some days ago that he might proceed with his training in Madison Square Garden, under the personal supervision of Tex Rickard, promoter of the fight.

Rickard stated at that time that he wished Firpo to be immediately available for any call from the commission.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 5.—In the absence from the city of Secretary Davis, action upon Commissioner Curran's request for a warrant for the arrest of Luis Angel Firpo is expected to be taken by Assistant Secretary White, who it was indicated late today, will grant the request.

The warrant probably will be sent to New York by telegraph tomorrow morning in which event Firpo would be placed under arrest for appearance before immigration authorities, and then released on bond pending a hearing.

The hearing, it was indicated, probably will be instituted immediately and will involve questions surrounding the entry into this country a year ago of Blanca Picart, Argentine manicurist, who is alleged to have come to the United States when the fighter was here for his match with Jack Dempsey. After the labor department officials declined to discuss the case it is understood that Firpo will have the right to appeal to the courts from any decisions of the immigration authorities in the matter and for this reason there is little likelihood of his fight with Harry Wills next Thursday being interfered with.

Not all the flying machines are confining their activities to circus stunts. One plane in southwest Texas is spraying poison dust to kill boll weevils, at $1.30 an acre. The plane flies about 10 feet above ground.

Only $1.30 an acre for the poison and its distribution by airplane! It's a remarkably low price, compared with hand spraying. Isolated cases like this part the curtains and reveal how useful the airplane will be in the future.

The back to school movement fostered by one of the international men's organizations, is growing in importance year by year. The work is being broadened out so that interest in boys does not cease when they are entered in the school. Records show that many a boy slips after he has commenced his school work and the backers of the movement purpose not only to see that boys are in school but stay there.

It cannot be said too often that the citizens of tomorrow are being made in the schools of today, and the kind of society and government we have in the coming years depends upon the influence and efficiency of the school systems.

FINANCIAL BACKING TELLS THE STORY

Germany has received credits from America of $10,000,000 with which to rebuild her coal industry. This is only the forerunner of credit which will be granted to Germany, and it spells the quick recovery of all German trade. In fact the credits are granted for the express purpose of bringing Germany back into the world markets.

When we consider to what lengths big business will go to establish markets, rehabilitate entire nations and create fields of trade, we wonder how men could have ever started a war that they knew would destroy the great commercial fabric which is so essential to the life of business. The financial interests of the nations are only now beginning to rebuild the shattered structure, with a faith that it shall this time be permanent.

THE COST OF CRIME

It is said that the Loeb-Leopold hearing will cost Chicago not less than $600,000. That sum is less than a regular trial would have cost, but it is illuminative in that it informs the public, not only there but everywhere, that crime is enormously expensive in dollars and cents, to say nothing of its hideousness.

Chicago now has attained a record of a murder a day. Not all of these crimes will entail such expenses as are attached to the Loeb-Leopold hearing, but no one of them will fail to take its money toll from the pockets of the taxpayers.

And what is true in Chicago is also true in every other community where crimes, great or small, are committed.

Every time an offense against the law is perpetrated, whether it be of minor or major degree, it reaches into the pocket of every citizen and takes therefrom, in cold cash, either so many cents or so many dollars, as the case may demand.

We deprecate it but do not measure crime for what it is. We look upon it as merely an infringement or assault of one or more persons upon others, individually or collectively and in one way or another—as a shock to the human sensibilities. It is all of that kind and far more.

It is a money tax of burdensome size. It is something that we permit to be forced on us and for which we must and do pay in cold, hard cash. It is something that impoverishes us not only morally, physically and mentally, but financially.

The remedy is in the hands of civilization everywhere.

POOLHARDY EXHIBITIONS

On one day recently newspapers carried accounts of three strikingly similar mishaps. A performer in a "flying circus" who undertook to climb from one airplane to another, in full flight, was hit by one of the plane propellers and knocked unconscious with several ribs broken. He was only saved from death by his instinctive hold on the plane wing.

A "human fly" in Alberta, Lea, Minn., was fatally injured by falling 60 feet from the tower of the court house, which he was climbing for the delectation of a crowd below.

The body of another daredevil climber was on its way home from Chambersburg, Pa., where he was killed by the breaking of an automobile inner tube, by which he had hung from a ledge several stories up in the air.

Such stunts will be attempted as long as there are human beings preferring uncommon pay to common sense and as long as the public would rather see people risking their lives than patronize entertainments worthy of a civilized age. A philosopher may amuse himself by speculating on how long that will be.

in the subject of Feet Washing as taught in the scriptures to come Sunday morning.

For the next three months we will have a special drive on to enlarge our Sunday School, and we invite all of the fathers and mothers of the city to come and bring their children. This drive is not to get the children from other schools but to reach those who are not at present enrolled. The children will be awarded with credits at the end of the drive. The annual tent meeting of the Church of God will begin September 14 with R. O. Marsh of Union City, Indiana, as the evangelist.

We regret that we could not procure an evangelist before the cold nights came but should it get too cold we will move to a hall. The place the tent will be located is not yet determined. We solicit the cooperation of all Christian people of the city in making this meeting a perfect success.

Friends, this church has come to stay and we humbly ask all to treat us as a neighbor. We have greater handicaps than some of our more favored pastors and congregations of the city but remember, it was not many years ago when our beloved John Wesley and others preached in the open air, in log huts, etc., and behold the end of their labor. Let's be friends what do you say? You are welcome always.

Pastor Jay M. Bentley.

BREEDEN ASKS $1076 DAMAGES FOR WOUND

Former Local Man Who Was Shot by Officer at Virginia Files Heavy Claim With City Council—Rev. Gowdy May Be Moved—Bankers in Meeting.

Virginia, Sept. 5.—A claim against the city made by Hugh Breeden for $1,076 was read at the regular September meeting of the city council Monday evening, and was referred to the finance committee. Mr. Breeden was accidentally shot while Night Watchman Harvey Sallee was attempting to arrest Ben Lee Darland several months ago.

Mr. Breeden estimates his time at $75 a week, his claim showing that he was unable to work for eleven weeks after the wound was received. He includes in the claim his hospital bill and the charges made by physician and surgeons.

The finance committee was instructed by the council to determine whether or not the city is liable for the mishap.

The Rev. D. V. Gowdy will preach his last sermon at the Methodist church next Sunday before going to Bloomington, Ill. where he will attend the conference that may send him to another pastorate. While the local church is unanimous in its request for Mr. Gowdy's return to Virginia, the matter rests with the bishop. Mr. Gowdy says he hasn't the slightest idea whether or not he will be returned to the local pulpit.

Alarmed by the increasing proximity of bank robberies, bankers of the city held a conference at the Centennial National bank Wednesday evening to consider protective measures.

The meeting was held immediately following receipt of word here of the robbery of the Jefferson State Bank in Springfield Wednesday noon and the seizure of $20,000.

One of the protective measures being considered is the closing of the banks during the noon hour. Another meeting will be held the latter part of the week, at which time the bankers' decision will be announced. Other measures include the hiring of guards.

All the banks of the city are equipped with guns and ammunition with which to resist as far as possible attacks by bandits.

The races will continue this afternoon, and the Guy Baldwin free performances and the J. K. Pearson shows will continue until a late hour. Music will be provided by the Waverly band.

One of the chief features of the program yesterday was the grand parade of all premium stock, held on the race course before the grandstand at noon. The parade, which was led by the Jacksonville Community band, included the following prize animals: Shorthorn cattle, 25; Herefords, 3; Black Polled, 2; Baby beavers, 17; Guernseys, 9; draft teams in harness, 2; draft horses, 13; roadsters, 12; mules, 15; jacks, 2; ponies, 7; single drivers, 1; pole teams, 2; saddle horses, 2.

Boy scouts from Franklin will serve today at the scout "good turn" headquarters, according to announcement made yesterday by county scout executive, S. E. Albrecht. The Franklin troop will be accompanied here by Scoutmaster B. E. Asplund.

One of the scout "good turns" this week was the finding of a valuable gold watch which had been lost by Mrs. A. H. Davidson of Jacksonville. The watch was lost Thursday evening after dark, in the crowd which had assembled inside the race course to view the fireworks. As soon as the loss was reported to the scout headquarters, several scouts took flashlights and began a thorough search for the watch. Although the space was packed with the largest crowd of the week, the lost watch was soon discovered by Scout Jimmie Merrill, and was restored to the owner.

Books and Those Who Write Them

The Seer of Bengel

By WAYNE GARD

One May morning in his early life, Rabindranath Tagore was pointing out to a few visitors the natural attractions of his environment at Bolpur. On the verge of the horizon, a thin, blue cloud had risen above a fringe of trees, making a picture which appealed to the poet as particularly striking.

Drawing attention to this view, he compared the cloud to a blue collyrium on the fringe of lashes, enhancing a beautiful blue eye. One of his companions failed to hear the remark, another did not understand, while the third dismissed it with the reply, "Yes, very pretty." Needless to say, Tagore did not feel encouraged to attempt another poetic flight.

Notwithstanding the wide circulation of his poems in "Gitanjali"—said to have exceeded that of any other Oriental verse since the Rubaiyat—Tagore's literary work has met with scarcely more understanding and appreciation than his remark on the cloud above the distant trees. For several years it was fashionable to read Tagore and to talk about Tagore. At present it is not fashionable.

"These verses," wrote William Butler Yeats in 1912, "will not lie in little well-printed books upon ladies' tables, who turn the pages with indolent hands that they may sigh over a life without meaning, which is yet all they can know of life, or be carried about by students at the university to be laid aside when the work of life begins." Yet that is just what has happened.

Tagore suffered from being lauded by the wrong kind of readers and from the underestimation which invariably follows overestimation. His lapse in popularity cannot be attributed entirely to lack of appreciation on the part of the reading public. After "Gitanjali," book after book was hurried out, with the result of an overstocked market. These English volumes were hastily prepared, some being translations of earlier and inferior works. All were seriously handicapped by lack of notes.

The poet made the mistake of responding to wholesale requests which poured in to him for introductions to all kinds of books, thus lowering his own reputation by praising unworthy volumes. Among British readers, especially those in India, his reputation of his knighthood as a result of the Punjab massacres of 1919 was a further alienation. Those who judge a man's poetry by his politics—and there are plenty in India who do so—could have no use for anyone who had the audacity to fling back a knighthood into the face of the King-Emperor.

Among his own countrymen, Tagore's recognition came tardily, and with much opposition. In Bengal it was for years a common practice for university examiners to quote passages from Tagore's books, with the injunction, "Rewrite in chaste Bengali." The University of Calcutta refused to make him a Doctor of Literature on the ground that he was not a Bengali scholar. It was only after he had won the Nobel Prize for Literature that this institution honored him with a Doctorate.

Tagore's withdrawal from the nationalist movement was a bitter disappointment to a large section of his countrymen. The acceptance of his knighthood lost as many followers as did the subsequent repudiation. Although the poet took an active part in the agitation over the Partition of Bengal, he afterwards refused to follow Gandhi in non-cooperation, and condemned the educational boycott as negative and sterile.

Yet the anger which he had to bear as "The Lost Leader" is now largely forgotten. Tagore is not the national idol which he might easily have been, but he nevertheless enjoys the respect and praise of his people. His Bengali books, numbering more than 150, have a wide sale; his songs are sung by bullock drivers who never heard his name. When he travels, he is greeted by enormous crowds who carry national flags and shout national cries.

This revival of popularity in his own country is due largely to the poet's educational efforts at Santiniketan, the haven of peace, Tagore's university, called Visva-Bharati, is conducted as a private enterprise, without government aid. It seeks to preserve the ideals of ancient India as a contribution to universal culture, and to help the East and the West to come to a better understanding of each other. The classes gather beneath the banyans, and their discipline is self-imposed.

The volumes which claim Tagore as their author are as varied as they are profuse. The shears and the fire seem to have found none of their parts. If his critical faculty had been as highly developed as his creative ability, we should have had fewer, more carefully prepared, the task of separating the wheat from the chaff would have been less wearisome.

Tagore's lyrics have an exquisite charm, even when translated into English prose. It is justly that they have been compared to the Psalms and the Song of Solomon. The plays have a fanciful, fabulous quality much appreciated by admirers of Lord Dunsany. "Gitanjali" and "Sacrifice and Other Plays" are the two volumes most worthy of immortality.

His essays are dull and tiring; his lectures, too abstract to be followed easily. He soars high, then forgets to return to earth; figurative phrases pile themselves one above another without any trace of practical concreteness. His stories lack distinction. Those who believe Tagore a greater poet than Kipling are forced to admit that in fiction the balance is on the other side.

Rabindranath Tagore is now a weary prophet of sixty-three years. He longs for leisure in his closing days, that he may revert to his favorite occupation as a lyric poet, but leisure is not likely to be his lot.

In Bengal, Tagore will live as a maker of songs. In the West, he probably will be recalled only as one of the winners of the Nobel prize; his unequal translations forgotten. For at present we have little sympathy with literature in which the imagination and the emotions are unfettered, and in which gods and goddesses walk and converse with them. Some will fail to hear the songs of Tagore, some will not understand, others will dismiss with a "Yes, very pretty."

Balm in Gilead

THE MAGICAL CHANCE. By Dallas Lore Sharp. Boston: Houghton Mifflin Company. 1923. $1.75.

Reviewed by HAZEL DELL

Three centuries ago Sir Philip Sidney counseled a young poet who was seeking his advice concerning material for poetry, "Look in thy heart and write." Dallas Lore Sharp followed this precept in writing his essays collected under the title, "The Magical Chance." It is, of course, the prerogative of a familiar essayist to be self-revealing. In this case the reader feels to a marked degree the contact with a rich and varied personality.

Professor Sharp has written from his heart, and the essence of his advice to young writers is to do likewise. One does not need to travel to the uttermost parts of the earth for "copy"—it is ready and waiting wherever life is. "If only I had known early that Mullen Hill was as good as Helicon; that the people of Hingham were as interesting as those of Cranford; that Hingham has a natural history as rich and varied as Selbourne. Hingham is as good as Hanover or Heaven for books." And it is this doctrine that he communicates to those who seek fresh fields for "copy."

The author is an adventurer, but adventure may be found any place when one takes the trouble to create it. Even today, when all the giants are gone and all the frontiers have been crossed, a margin of chance of escape from the mundane routine may be found if we have the vision to see the possibilities. "Life offers us all the chance of escape. Go where we will on the surface of things, men have been there before us; but beneath the surface we need go no deeper than our own hearts to find a frontier, and that adventurous something for which the decorous and conventional allows no place in its scheme."

It is natural that Sharp should admire John Burroughs. The last essay in the group is devoted to a discussion of the famous naturalist and writer. It reveals sympathy and appreciation of the work and character of Burroughs whose life is taken as an illustration of Sharp's philosophy. That in creative work, amid simple, natural surroundings, lies true happiness. The return to a simpler life, preferably a pastoral one, is offered as a panacea for the evils that have arisen from a complex social organization.

The most profound enjoyment of the finest things of life is to be found not in the mad scramble for money, but in a calmer, more serene existence where one may take time to turn and wonder. To be sure, everyone cannot reside in the Hingham hills, nor is every man suited for either writing or farming. But to do the thing that you are meant to do, and do it with your whole heart because of your love for it, is to have more abundant life.

The sermon that is preached is acceptable because of the kindly humor that pervades the essays, the sincere love for all humanity, and the mellow philosophy of a man who has seen much and done much, but who clings to his simple life in the hills because there he finds life rich in romance and adventure.

The vogue of Rabindranath Tagore in England promises to be revived with the recent publication of a new novel by the Indian mystic and the promise of another book, "Thought Relics and Stray Birds." This latter volume consists of reflections, sketches, and studies, with a few short stories.

JOHN BUCHAN

NEW BUCHAN NOVEL IS MYSTERY STORY

"The Three Hostages" Combines Adventure with the Occult in Hypnotic Tale.

John Buchanan's latest novel, "The Three Hostages," which has just been published by Houghton Mifflin Company, and which to be reviewed for the Journal at an early date by Robert V. Shoemaker, is a mystery tale which combines adventure with the occult. It depicts another chapter in the life of Sir Richard Hannay, British secret service agent, now retired.

Hannay has had his fill of adventure in previous Buchanan books, and in the first chapter of this one is content to settle down on his English estate with his beautiful wife and their small boy. But, of course, this would never do. So Buchanan concocts a wild conspiracy in which Bolsheviks and hypnotists figure.

Three persons, members of prominent American and British families, are kidnapped and held as hostages. Authorities come to Hannay and beg him to set his hand at work to free them. They must be free by a certain day, secretaries will come, and unless the hostages are free, it is feared that their death would result. Hannay finally accepts, and how he succeeds forms the plot of the story.

John Buchanan, author of this tale, was born in 1876, of an old border family; he was educated at Glasgow University and Brasenose College, Oxford, where he was graduated with honors after winning many of the college prizes.

In 1901 he was called to the English bar. In the same year he went to South Africa as private secretary to Lord Milner, high commissioner for the Transvaal, and organized the agricultural and land departments for the Transvaal. He traveled extensively all over South Africa, went up to the Zambesi and shot big game, fell eternally in love with the country, and became a convert to Cecil Rhodes' dream of a united British empire.

In 1907 he became a partner of Thomas Nelson and Sons, Limited, and later stood for his home county as Unionist candidate for Parliament. At the outbreak of the World War he was re-commissioned, and by 1915 was lieutenant-colonel and for a time liaison officer between the British and the French armies. In 1916 Mr. Lloyd George appointed him director of information in the Foreign Office, a position which he held until the end of the war.

During these years he found time to write his "History of the Great War," and during a convalescence he wrote "Thirty-Nine Steps" and "Greenmantle." "I have amused myself with writing, he says 'ever since I went to college. At the age of sixteen I published an annotated edition of Bacon's 'Essays.' I published several novels and a book of essays at Oxford."

Rifle-shooting is a favorite diversion, in the matter of fish he declares himself "mad."

TENNYSON DISPLAY AT BOSTON LIBRARY

The Boston Public Library is holding an exhibition in commemoration of the 115th anniversary of the birth of the poet Tennyson. All of the books exhibited are first editions, and in addition there are several manuscripts. It is interesting to note that most of the volumes from the "Poems" of 1842 to the "Ballads" of 1880 were simultaneously published in London and Boston.

Among the manuscripts, the short fragment of the first draft of "The Miller's Daughter" is the most valuable. Three stanzas are in the handwriting of Tennyson. He crossed out all three but later restored the second and third. The first, though completed, was never published. It reads as follows:

"I met in all the close green ways,
While walking with my line
And rod, the miller's mealy face
Like the moon in an ivy-tod.
He looked so jolly and so good—
While fishing in the milldam water
I laughed to see him as I stood
And dreamt not of the miller's daughter."

IN SPITE OF TIME

My love for you, in spite of time and change,
Grows ever upward like a mighty tree;
So certain 'tis, yet ever new and strange
It seems to me.

It seems among those fixed eternal things
Deep in the bases of existence blent,
Yet all unseen each passing moment brings
Its increment.

And the green growing branches of my love
With myriad hands reach upward to the blue,
Lifting me all in all the world above
In quest of you.

While sturdy roots strike downward through the land,
Holding to earthly base my reach sublime—
Thus in my love unchanging I shall stand
In spite of time.

GEORGE STEELE SEYMOUR.

CENTENNIAL POEMS OBTAINABLE TODAY

Attractively Printed Anthology of Jacksonville Verse Placed On Sale.

"Jacksonville Poets: 1825-1925," which is placed on sale today at the Journal office and at local bookstores, has already attracted much favorable comment, both as to its content and as to its attractive appearance. "Deliciously printed," is the comment of one critic.

The quality of the poems included in this anthology may be surmised from the fact that a number of them have previously appeared in periodicals of high literary standard and of national circulation. Henry H. Caldwell's "To a Primrose" made its first appearance in the New York Times as did Margaret King Moore's "The Unknowing." The latter poem has been reprinted throughout the country. One of its appearances was on the front page of the Sunday rotogravure section of the Omaha Bee. "It merits universal circulation" was the comment of the Chicago Tribune.

John Kearns is represented by four poems, including "Tinker Jones," of which the original publication was followed by the appearance of other poems on the same subject by five different authors. Mr. Kearns' sonnet on "Exiles" is considered by many to be the best poem which has appeared on the Journal's Saturday book page since the inauguration of that department.

"Hollyhocks" is perhaps the most popular poem by Wayne Gard, having been reprinted in the periodicals or many states and foreign countries. All the way from the Calcutta Review to the Salt Lake Tribune, its most recent appearance was on the poetry page of the Literary Digest. Mr. Gard's sonnet on "Clouds," which also is to be found in this anthology, was recently awarded a prize by the American Poetry Magazine, being given precedence over the work of such well-known poets as Oscar Williams, Harold Vinal and Nora B. Cunningham, which was entered in the same competition.

Among the other notable contributions to the centennial collection are several exquisite lyrics by Robert V. Shoemaker and Ernest C. Rutherford, and "Memory's Trail," a memorable poetic gem by William S. Camp. Other Jacksonville poets whose work is preserved in the anthology are William A. Bartlett, Jr., M. H. Grassy, Susie A. Hughes, Anne Wakely Jackson, S. W. Nichols, Martha Capps Oliver, Ida Scott Taylor and E. Bernice Wood.

"Jacksonville Poets: 1825-1925" is more than a souvenir of the coming centennial. It preserves in handy form the selected work of Jacksonville verse-writers of the past century. It will be resorted to as a work of historical reference, as long as the community exists. After a few years it will be in demand as a rare volume, but at present it can be purchased for the remarkably low sum of fifty cents.

The University of Athens has decided to buy the plot of land at Millolouhi on which Byron's house stood, and to convert it into a square, with a memorial to the poet. It is also to publish translations by Professor Seferis of Byron's poetical works about Greece, and by Professor Menardos of his prose on the same subject. In addition, in commemoration of the centenary of the poet's death, it will confer honorary degrees upon twelve Englishmen, besides Rudyard Kipling, representing Byron's old school and university.

American Failings

WASTE. By Robert Herrick. New York: Harcourt, Brace and Company. 1924. $2.

Reviewed by GENEVA GREGORY

Professor Cross says on one occasion in Robert Herrick's "Waste," "Understand something my boy, or create something. That is all there is to life." After reading the book we are left with the impression that the author himself has understood something but has created very little. The book is more interesting and important as an analysis of American life during the last forty years than it is as a novel.

The story, like many others of its kind, is biographical, being entirely concerned with the efforts of Jarvis Thornton to live a life without "squalor." Harassed by a querulous mother and distressed by the weakness of an incompetent father, Jarvis early seeks relief from the sort of life his home typifies. The pursuit leads him through college, several years of teaching, and into an unsuccessful marriage. He tries engineering in Chicago at the time of the World's Fair, and later in the West.

Disgusted with modern business methods, he resigns and enters his chosen field of architecture. He is abroad when the War breaks out, and is in France during the early part of the struggle. He returns to the United States where he again tries to lose himself in architecture, then in a belated love affair, and finally returns to his college to teach.

It is not always an interesting story. It is almost too much to expect sustained interest in following the spiritual grapples with life of any person through 450 closely printed pages, no matter how important that person might be. And Jarvis Thornton is scarcely an individual at all; he is rather a representative of a type. He belongs to the increasing minority of non-conformists, the rebels against current beliefs and enthusiasms, the searchers after beauty and the meaning of life.

As a matter of fact, there is scarcely an individual character in the whole book. All are representatives of modern Americans—the banker, the big business man, the artist sold into commerce, the war enthusiast, the politician, and the wives of such men.

It is not, however, in the story or the characterizations that our interest—or the author's—chiefly lies. Clearly and courageously he depicts American life of this century as he sees it, and he gives us a picture of Western spiritual waste, and squalor, which he calls "a mean deference to all material things." Americans he describes as "pitiful, harassed, unhappy, joyless creatures, harnessed to some gigantic machine that in its marvelously complex revolutions dragged all individuality and joy out of its victims."

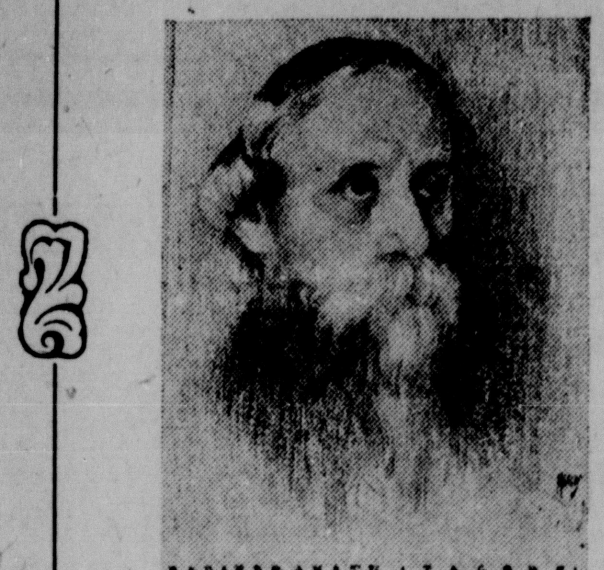

The War, he believes, might have been the great purging force to save men from themselves, but he frankly acknowledges its failure. Even before America entered the war, he says, "In his heart he knew it was lost no matter which side won a victory. If it had ever had any meaning, any hope for humanity, they had long since been drowned in a welter of lying worlds and blood."

With great scorn he pictures Washington during the war, showing the personal vanity which caused men to don the uniform, the greed which led them into voluntary service, and the emptiness of their patriotic enthusiasm. The return to normalcy he characterizes as "the good old days of easy greed, when one might go about one's business acquiring property unhampered by social change."

If such a manner stripped of all false sentiment and show, he lays bare all that we as Americans have smugly accepted as the expression of the highest type of civilization. The survey is extensive; little escapes. Ideals in business, politics, education, art, religion, are questioned. He would show that our colleges fall in their primary duties, our houses are ugly makeshifts, our women selfish and shallow, and our whole business structure "fundamentally unsound."

The real value of presenting such a point of view is an interesting speculation. It is undeniably wholesome for us to take stock of our national sham and weakness and ignorance occasionally, and rather a lot of such activity would seem to be necessary if we are in any measure to counteract the self-congratulatory cries of 100 percent Americanism on all sides.

Otherwise, the book is not constructive. Mr. Herrick gives us little hope. He hints that the solution of our difficulties lies in education, but even there, the outlook is not wholly encouraging. As Jarvis Thompson goes back to his college to teach, he writes to his sister: "If I can in any measure save some of them from waste and waste, I went through the waste of spirit I see about me in our life today, I shall be content. I don't know that it can be done, that waste is not inherent, inevitable in the process of living, but it is worth the effort."

Mr. Herrick is a professor at the University of Chicago. He has previously written "The Common Lot," "The Memoirs of an American Citizen," "Together," and "Homely Lilla."

—to have a good APPETITE!

"Yes! thank you."

A GOOD appetite means a cheerful disposition. You may have a good appetite if the blood that goes constantly to your vital organs is pure. S.S.S. purifies the blood—a good appetite follows and you will have a clear complexion and will be strong, cheerful and healthy.

Don't go on feeling up one day and down the next—hardly sick but never well—losing "pep," punch and ambition. Hearty eaters are the red-blooded men and women. Enjoy your food! Get back your strength and energy! Reclaim yourself before it is too late! People in a physically rundown condition are an easy prey to disease.

S.S.S. is what is needed. Your blood needs purifying. Your blood cells supply the energy which keeps your body well and fit. S.S.S. aids Nature in supplying new blood-cells, the spark that renews your system. Carefully selected, scientifically proportioned and prepared herbs and barks make up S.S.S.—the great blood purifier which gives Nature a helping hand. Get back the lost appetite, the missing vitality, the keen, sparkling eyes, that look of determination. S.S.S. will give you more energy, vitality and vigor and a more up and going appearance.

S.S.S. is sold at all good drug stores in two sizes. The larger size is more economical. S.S.S. Makes You Feel Like Yourself Again

Menus for a Family

Breakfast—Cooked wheat cereal with chopped dates, thin cream, liver and bacon, creamed potatoes, toasted rolled oats, bread, corn muffins, coffee, milk.

Luncheon—Broiled meat paty, baked potato, baked apple with top milk whole wheat bread and butter sandwich.

Dinner—Baked bluefish, baked sweet potatoes, scalloped tomatoes, lettuce salad with Thousand Island dressing, chocolate bread pudding with whipped cream, milk, coffee.

Members of the family who are less than 6 years of age will not indulge in the liver, muffins or coffee suggested in the breakfast menu. Crisp bacon and the potatoes may be given to the 4-year-old child.

This luncheon was planned particularly for the children under school age when the older children carry their luncheon to school.

Serve the lettuce without the dressing to children under 8. And if you stuff your fish for baking, of course the juniors will be better off without the highly seasoned stuffing.

Broiled Meat Paty

Serape two or three ounces of round steak with a knife. This leaves the fibers of the meat and gives you the clean meat pulp. Season slightly with salt and form in a small flat cake. Broil four minutes, turning often. The meat should be rare so the thickness of your party will determine the length of time you broil it.

Chocolate Bread Pudding

One and one-half cups stale bread crumbs without crust, 2 cups hot milk, 1 square Baker's chocolate, 1-2 cup sugar, 1 tablespoon butter, 1-4 teaspoon salt, 1-2 teaspoon vanilla, 1 egg.

Combine milk and bread crumbs and let stand half an hour. Melt chocolate over hot water. Add to bread and milk with butter, sugar, salt and vanilla. Beat egg well and stir into mixture. Turn into a buttered pudding dish and bake 50 minutes in a slow oven.

This is a simple nourishing pudding that is hearty enough to follow a light meat course for grownups and form the main dish for very small people. A very small "portion" of whipped cream should dress the pudding for those from 4 to 6 because the chocolate adds fat to the pudding. (Copyright, 1924, NEA Service, Inc.)

PRINCE DOESN'T MIND CAMERAS WHEN ALONE

SYOSSET, N. Y., Sept. 5.—Under cloudy skies and in a chilly wind, the Prince of Wales today played his fifth polo game in six days, giving six of his ponies a thorough workout. Despite the cool air which caused the small group of spectators assembled on the W. R. Grace field to put on overcoats, horses and men were dripping with perspiration after the first seven and one-half minutes of play.

A light rain fell during the last two periods, and the Prince returned from the field in a downpour.

As the Prince walked to his motor car, one of the ubiquitous photographers stepped from behind a hedge and got to work. Inspector Burt of Scotland Yard started toward the cameraman. "I don't mind, Burt," said the Prince, turning to stop his secret service guard.

The inspector glanced reprovingly at the photographer and contented himself with the remark: "Your imposing on his generosity."

The heir to the throne does not appear to object seriously to being photographed so long as the cameramen are not the forefront of a pressing and curious crowd. When almost alone, as he was today, he frequently lets the photographers fire away to their heart's content.

Final Races Of Fair Will Be Run Today

TODAY'S RACE CARD
2:17 Trot, $200 Added Money.
2:19 Pace, $200 Added Money.
Consolation running race for ponies during fair.

Another good crowd, but not quite the equal of that of Thursday, was present at the fair grounds track to witness the Friday race card. The card, as planned by the fair authorities, and the horses entered had class, far more so it seems than some of the drivers. None of the local horses or drivers, however, were apparently open to censure, but in other cases there were some very poor specimens of race driving which the entire crowd of racegoers loudly objected to. In the first race Windfield Scott trailed Bender Chief in the first two heats at 2:21, took the third heat at 2:19, the fourth heat at 2:17, and in the fifth and deciding heat between Windfield Scott and Bender Chief, Driver Bartlett put up the dirtiest looking race ever seen on the local track, loafing away back in the field and finishing far behind Bender Chief, even though this heat went in the slow time of 2:23. For this drive Bartlett was fined $25 by the judges and further judgment suspended until a meeting last night, with the announcement made that the starter will announce his final sentence from the stand this afternoon.

In the second race, the 2:14 pace, this same driver was up behind Dan Onward, which showed in some heats that he possessed plenty of class. Apparently the practice was used to a certain extent in this race, as Dan Onward lost the first two heats to Moore in the time of 2:14, came back and won the third heat in the same time, won the fourth heat in 2:16, and after Bartlett had been fined in the previous race, he came back on the track in a two horse race between Moore and Dan Onward, and eventually finished first in 2:13, four seconds slower than the first heat won by his horse.

It is an undisputed fact that far from all of the crowd of spectators are first class judges of a horse race, but when such flagrant examples of pulling occur it would be a blind person, indeed, who could not see the coarse work. It was announced from the judges' stand yesterday at the close of the day's racing, in behalf of the directors, that they do not countenance these tactics, and the public was assured that today's race card had to be properly driven or drastic action would be taken against all offenders. The horsemen may have their side of the argument but the fact still remains that the public, whose money makes possible race meets, expect, and deserve real contests, not farce comedies in order that a driver may not lower his horse's mark by winning a race. It is primarily supposed that those interested in any sport should, first of all, be sportsmen themselves, and in that case it is no more than fair that the people be given what they pay for, regardless of the outcome.

Coming as it did, in the face of the poor drive given two of the horses in one of the races on Thursday, the directors feel that for the good of racing in Morgan county, it has become necessary to tighten down on some of the flagrant abuses on the confidence of the public, and they state that they fully intend to follow out this policy in this afternoon's program.

Announcement was also made that all tickets purchased for the week, including exhibitors tickets will be honored at the gate for the races this afternoon. This action was taken on account of the heavy rain stopping the races last Monday afternoon.

ST. LOUIS GOLFER LEADS AT CHICAGO

CHICAGO, Sept. 5. (AP)—William Mehlhorn of St. Louis by equalling the course record of 70 for the 6614 yard course, of the Calumet Country Club, today managed to bar two amateurs from leading the field in the elimination rounds of the Western Open Golf Championship his total of 76-70-146 being one stroke better than that of Chick Evans, who shot par 72 today, and two strokes ahead of the total returned by Eddie Held of St. Louis, who slipped on the first nine for a forty and took 76.

Mehlhorn in carrying first place to St. Louis set a record for the first nine of 34. He had a unique card for the second half playing every one of the nine holes four strokes. Held was able to carry third honors for the same city by virtue of his par 72 played yesterday.

Al Watrus, Grand Rapids with a 73 today and Abe Espinosa, San Francisco with a 75 tied at 149 for fourth place. Al Espinosa, of Chicago, who had established a record of 70 for the course yesterday fell off ten strokes today, but his total of 150 tied him for sixth place with Leo Diegel, Washington and Jack Burke, St. Paul. The remaining places in the first ten went to Jock Hendry of St. Paul and Eddie Loose, Chicago, who had 151 each.

William McGraw of Murrayville made a business trip to Jacksonville Friday.

WEST ORANGE, N. J., Sept. 5.—The senior championships of the National A. A. U., will be contested tomorrow at Colgate field under direction of the Newark A. C., on wet grounds. NEW YORK, Sept. 5.—Stock prices broke sharply in today's market net losses running from 1 to 4 points in a number of popular industrial issues. American Woolen, whose sensational decline featured yesterday's session was again under severe pressure today. The first sale was a block of 3,500 shares at the "spread opening" price of 56-57. It rallied about a point higher on short covering broke to 58 the lowest price since 1919 and closed at 55 1/2. U. S. Steel common dropped 1 point to 106 1/2. Baldwin showed a gain of 2 points at 119 1/2 and American Can was down 1/2 at 12 1/2.

Studebaker duplicated its recent high of forty and then slipped to 38 1/2, off 3/4.

Coils showed splendid resistance to selling pressure in reflection of the further improvement in the crude oil situation.

Railroad shares developed several points of strength altho a majority of issues in that group showed declines on the day. Further accumulation of Lackawanna sent that stock up to 143 1/2, the highest price since the declaration of a 100 percent stock dividend on August 20, 1921. Profit taking, however, carried it down to 140 1/2 at the close.

Call money opened at 2 1/2 percent and then dropped to 2.

OKLAHOMA NURSE EXONERATED BY JURY

Coroner's Jury Fixes No Blame On Miss Frances Bodley Who Drove Car Which Caused Mrs. J. T. Little's Death.

Miss Frances Bodley, public health nurse of Tulsa, Okla., who drove the car which caused the death of Mrs. John T. Little at Alexander, Thursday night, was exonerated at a coroner's inquest conducted yesterday morning at the Gillham Funeral Home.

A jury composed of K. V. Beerup, foreman; P. G. Stein, clerk; E. E. Hatfield, William Batz, Benjamin Cade and Howard Burch returned a verdict "cerebral hemorrhage due to violence by being accidentally hit by a Ford runabout driven by Miss Frances Bodley on hard road in Alexander, Ill., on Sept. 4, 1924, which threw her against the pavement. We therefore exonerate Miss Bodley from all blame."

Miss Bodley was the first witness to take the witness stand. She stated that she was traveling west on the hard road east of Alexander and Mrs. Little stepped from a car and walked back of it. Miss Bodley started to the left to avoid hitting her and she stepped back in front of the car. The car was stopped immediately but did not avoid hitting Mrs. Little. The witness said she was not driving fast.

Two other witnesses testified that Miss Bodley was not driving fast and appeared to do all she could to avoid an accident. These witnesses were Mrs. Ethel B. Carter and Joseph Ridder of Alexander who witnessed the accident. Written testimony of Dr. F. A. Norris was introduced.

Funeral services for Mrs. Little will be held this afternoon at 3 o'clock at 236 South Main street in charge of Rev. Cehuvant and Rev. Reid. Interment will be in the South Side cemetery at Clayton, Ill.

EGGS AND CLOTHING STOLEN FROM FARMER

Two Men in Car Supposed to Have Visited Farm of Arthur Acom Thursday—Were Seen at Concord Garage.

Arthur Acom, residing north of Markham, reported to police yesterday afternoon that someone had visited his home the day before and had taken away a good brown overcoat, a pair of brown trousers and seven dozen of eggs. He told the officers that members of the family were absent at the time of the robbery, but that neighbors had seen two men coming from the place in an old Ford car about the time the theft is supposed to have occurred.

Acom gave a description of the car and officers investigated. They found that two men in a car answering the description had stopped for two hours in Concord and put their car in a garage there for repairs on the evening of the robbery. The garage men were able to give a full description of the machine and the two men, and said that the outfit went north out of Concord about 7 o'clock in the evening. Police called Beardstown, and authorities there took up the trail, getting in touch with county officers at Virginia.

The car in which the men were riding was a 1923 model Ford. One of the men was tall, and appeared to be about thirty five years old. The other appeared to be a younger man and much shorter.

CLUB OBSERVES BACK TO SCHOOL CAMPAIGN

Rotarians Heard Discussion of Important Subject at Luncheon Friday—Significant Facts Given by Speakers.

The Back to School campaign fostered by the International Rotary was observed by the Jacksonville club at the Friday luncheon. President R. W. Woolston asked W. L. Kaiser, who is chairman of the boys' work committee, to preside and there were brief talks by Roland Pike of Springfield, Mass., a visiting Rotarian, B. F. Shafer, superintendent of schools, and Mr. Kaiser. Dr. Carl E. Black was to have had place on the program but in order to observe the regular hour of adjournment his talk was postponed until a later meeting.

Dr. Black as chairman of the board of education had prepared some facts about the growing cost of education, facts having direct relationship to the problem under consideration.

Before the general program began Rotarians listened to Mr. Pike and three associates connected with the Ed William Stock Co., in a number of songs and a vaudeville act. Then Mr. Pike, who is a member of the Springfield Mass., Rotary Club, and who has been directly connected with the boys' work in that club, spoke briefly.

He said that connected with the Back to School campaign there must be concern about what is done with the out of school hours. Then he said further that the work of organizations in Springfield interested in boys and girls had been connected with unrelated play activities and it was the function of Rotarians, assisted by men on the outside, to put on a program thru trained leaders emphasizing the value and need for work.

Earlier in the session President Woolston had announced that the district officers have undertaken to make a survey of boys of school age thruout the district and a complete card index will be made.

Supt. Shafer in introducing his brief address spoke of the value of such a survey as giving a real basis for the back to school movement and for keeping in touch with boys after they are in school.

Mr. Shafer stressed the point that it is necessary not only to get boys into school but to see that they keep in the right course afterward.

Then he said that the problem of right citizenship is inseparably linked with the school work, and cited a number of examples from personal experience to give proof of this fact. He referred to the schools as affording to society the possible insurance of useful members of society.

Mr. Kaiser as chairman in introducing the speakers, said that increase in high school attendance is now ten times as great as in 1890 and twice as great as in 1910. He quoted the figures for the Jacksonville high school as 700 and said that between 60 and 70 percent of high school pupils enter college. He gave some other significant facts but curtailed his talk because of the crowded program.

Byron Armstrong was able to answer roll call for the first time in many weeks, as he is just recovering from the injuries received in an automobile accident, and was given a warm welcome by his fellow Rotarians.

The guest list of the day included Ralph Robertson of Three Forks, Mont.; Dr. Myron Snell, Milwaukee; J. M. Danl. Chicago; Fred MaZu, Chicago; W. J. Eads, Marion, Ohio; Edward Williams and James Leonard, St. Louis; W. A. Berryman, Thomas Hopper and David Green, Jacksonville.

WRESTLING BEARS WITH BIG CIRCUS

Hagenbeck-Wallace Aggregation Coming Soon With Many Animal Attractions

Philadelphia newspapers recently published a story that the zoo in that city boasted of the only wrestling bear in captivity, but evidently the reporters and editors overlooked the Hagenbeck-Wallace circus, which carries a quintet of wrestling bears, that could make things interesting for "Strangler" Lewis, Joe Stechar, Zyusko, or any of the other top notch heavy weights.

When the Hagenbeck circus appears here on Sept. 10th, afternoon and night, circus lovers will have an opportunity to witness thrilling and sensational wrestling bouts between these bears and their human trainers, "Prince," a large Russian bear, weighing in the neighborhood of 500 pounds is the most versatile of these animals, and his opponent, James Deag, is forced to constantly be on the alert to prevent dangerous falls.

In addition to their wrestling ability, the bears also display themselves on horseback, walk tight ropes and do other seemingly impossible tricks. The bears have been trained to perfection by Jawn Helliott, the official Hagenbeck trainer in the United States and their teaching required much time and patience by the noted animal instructor.

Another group of domestic animals with the Hagenbeck show are the "Barnyard Romans," otherwise plain, common everyday pigs. Danny Ryan proved that the old saying "pigs is pigs" is often untrue, especially when you spend several hours a day teaching them parlor manners. And Ryan is now said to have the best pig act ever offered the public.

Circus Day activities will be inaugurated by the grand, gorgeous street parade of more than a mile in length, which is scheduled to leave the circus grounds at 11 a. m., and proceed over the principal business streets.
